MISSION STATEMENT

To promote the Japanese culture and preserve the Japanese American experience through education, events and activities for our community.

The Board of Directors elected Paul Jonokuchi to serve as President of SFVJACC in 2014. He has served as past President in 1994, and 2007-2009. He was born in Hiroshima, Japan and then in 1957, the family decided to move to the United States, first settling in West Los Angeles and later moving to the San Fernando Valley. He resides in Mission Hills and recently his wife passed away from pancreatic cancer. He has four sons, Richard, a registered nurse, Howard, an EMT, Scott who is in USANA Health product sales, and Andrew, a registered nurse. Paul graduated from San Fernando High School, attended Pierce College and graduated from CSULA. After returning from military service, he attained his teaching credential and worked for LAUSD.

Paul taught at King Middle School, Van Nuys High School and Canoga Park High School as an Industrial Arts teacher, focusing on woodworking, crafts, and stage craft. A few years before his retirement from the district, he was offered a position to teach Japanese at Canoga Park High School and develop programs and courses for the foreign language/business magnet program. In the evening, he also taught Japanese at Mission College and Moorpark College.

In 1994, Paul and his wife Nobuko opened Wakaba Japanese Language School and served as a Principal and director for the school. The school was specially designed to teach Japanese as a heritage language to English speaking students. The students were able to receive High School credit and the school lasted close to 20 years.

Paul is very active in the community serving as a past President of the SFVH Buddhist Temple and SFV Japanese Language Institute. Currently, he is a Board member of the SFV JACL, Meiji Senior Citizens Club, Nikkei Village Housing Corporation and an active vice-president of the Hiroshima Kenjin-Kai of Southern California. In addition, he serves as Chairman of the Coordinating Council planning activities and programs for the community. He is also involved with JACL’s summer youth summer camp "Suzume no Gakko" as a school Principal and being the Japanese language instructor.

Paul is looking forward to the challenge of serving as president and his goal and vision is to fulfill the Community Center’s mission statement — “To promote the Japanese culture and preserve the Japanese American experience through education, events and activities for our community”.

President's Message

By Paul Jonokuchi

Happy New Year! I hope everyone is having a prosperous and healthy New Year. I would like to thank the Board for electing me to serve as President for the coming year. It's always a great honor to serve and even though I have been down this road before, each time is always different, challenging, and rewarding. It's very tough to follow Nancy Oda's act but I'll do my best to continue to move this Center forward. Nancy Oda has done a marvelous job by bringing her leadership skill as a school administrator to help advance this Center. We appreciate all her devotion, dedication and service to everyone. Thank you very much, Nancy.

This year's New Year's Luncheon was overwhelming with so many people attending the event. We would like to give special thanks to Lois and Tadao Okui, Gene and Genevieve Lew, the Jr. Board and Team Mirai just to name a few, for their time and effort in organizing and planning and making this event successful every step of the way. To all the volunteers and helpers who came to lend a helping hand, our hats go off to you!

Recently, I went to this particular restaurant in which they had a fabulous menu and the food and service was first class. I thought to myself if the Center was like a restaurant and had great programs, events and good public service, the community would be willing to come and perhaps be actively involved with the Center. On that note, the Center needs to operate in a similar manner to a restaurant operation so that the Center will grow in popularity.

Secondly, we need to focus on the future of the Center. The Issei pioneers provided the foundation for the facility and the Nisei has continued to preserve the Japanese culture. For the Sansei/Yonsei generations we need to look forward and beyond for our children and grandchildren to have a greater opportunity to be involved with their Japanese-American heritage and culture. With new programs and facility improvements will hopefully lead to a brighter future for the next generations. In Japanese “Kodomo No Tameni” means for the sake of our children and that is our future goal.

Thirdly, we have new young talented Board members with fresh knowledge, ideas and enthusiasm to bring to the meeting table. I'm looking forward to working with our older board members and to nurture and develop these young board members so that they will become our future leaders of our Center.

One thing you will notice the next time you come to the Center is our newly installed surveillance video cameras indoor and outdoors for the safety and security of our members. Added surveillance, hopefully, will give piece of mind to our members while on/off the premises.

If you look at the 2014 calendar we have a variety of programs and activities provided for you. This year in May, we are going back to the traditional old-fashion family picnic for the whole family to enjoy. Mark your calendar for May 17, at Gabrieleno/Orcas Park and make sure to bring your blanket, lounge chairs and picnic basket with a home-cooked lunch.

On that note, we will be striving forward for our future planning. So, let us all work together for the common goal of making this community center a great place to remember.

Shorai ni tsuite (About the Future)

By Nancy Oda, Out-going SFVJACC President

We are now upright and ready to make a five year plan. So, we need leaders to help us sustain and improve our center and embrace our diversity. Now that the next generations are professionals as a result of the sacrifices of their parents, it is time to take that talent and energy to make a meaningful contribution to the center.

We need to seek and understand the history of our people and their journey to better appreciate what we have. Each generation must talk story about their experiences. The issei pioneers who are now deceased were true examples of endurance crafting their vision more than 60 years ago. Our elders worked hard to rebuild their lives after the war and created this gathering place. We sadly lost more than 20 members this year, many who overcame much and persevered to achieve their dreams for their descendants.

Now five days a week, our young seniors enjoy the Pioneer Center playing, singing, dancing and eating together. Our Thanksgiving luncheon is a feast that has become a new tradition. Twice a week Hot Meals serves more than 200 members who come to be together and talk about their kids or grand kids. Six nights a week the younger people play basketball from 6:00-12:00 pm in a beautiful well-lit gym. The CC is not, however, a recreation center, we are about relationships, lifelong relations.

Last November 2012, the board members of Nikkei Village donated all of the proceeds from its sale to help Nikkei Senior Gardens enlarge its memory support unit; forgave and eliminated all of our debt, so we could have a fresh start. Their board members served 28 years. That is a huge sacrifice. The funds we received will be placed in an endowment so we can assure the next generation a place that they can be proud of.

Do we have the endurance, perseverance of our forefathers, a sense of duty, willingness to sacrifice like the VFW Post 4140? Do we have an appreciation of the center enough to help sustain and improve it in small and/or big ways? Our intergenerational composition is a powerful mix because we can learn so much from each other.

As I hand the presidential gavel to Mr. Jonokuchi, I personally have learned from our elders, nisei, sansei, yonsei, shin issei, got a taste of the aloha spirit and, in the Japanese tradition, tried to leave the center a little better.

SFV MEIJI SENIOR CITIZENS CLUB

SFV Meiji Senior Citizens Club had a successful New Year’s Luncheon on January 11, 2014 with over 260 members and friends in attendance. The entertainment was provided by Hula Wahines, Ping Pong Club Singers, Japanese Dance and Ondo Dancers.

Honorees Mo Fujiu and Mark Nakamura were recognized for volunteering over 30 combined years. Twelve 85 year old members were inducted into the 85 Year Young Club.

Thank you Ken Kumagai for serving as Meiji president for the past 2 years.
People forget that other people can make mistakes. No individual is perfect; we all make them. Back in 1942, it just so happened that the President made one. When President Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed his mistake into action - Executive Order 9066 - it began the movement of over 120,000 Japanese Americans to special military zones: internment camps.

Could you imagine a world in which it was acceptable to tear people away from their homes simply because of their ethnicity? Yet, this is exactly what happened a mere 70 years ago. Thrown from their homes and their properties, the Japanese of the West Coast were taken to the internment camps with only a suitcase of things in each hand.

Of the ten camps, Manzanar is arguably the most known to Los Angeles residents, where over 10,000 Japanese Americans were forced to live in a mere 1 square mile housing. Whether they were born in the US or in Japan, many Japanese families were relocated; even within our community center today, we have people that were directly affected by this horrifying nightmare.

But, it is important to see that they were overreactions from people that were scared. "Two wrongs don't make a right" - yet here we have an attempt at just that. The US Government had taken civil liberties and their rights. Sure, there are those who viewed the Japanese - Asians as a whole - negatively, but to those that were wrongly stripped of their freedom and imprisoned, Manzanar remains as a tribute and a reminder of what happened. It is important because of the wrongdoings that were put on innocent people. And, it is important, because as Japanese Americans, family and friends were put away for a mistake – a mistake that never should have happened.

On Saturday, April 26, 2014, Team Mirai will lead this unique trip to visit the Manzanar internment camp. For this day-long trip, you will have opportunity to walk in their shoes and capture a glimpse of what they had seen. This step back in time will show you what the Japanese Americans endured and, later on, accomplished. These heart-breaking yet inspirational stories of the Japanese Americans that overcame their suffering in those camps, whose very descendents continued to thrive and integrate in the nation that held them, are the stories that our generation must recognize and learn from. Marking the beginning of an important time in Japanese American culture, these camps helped direct the way that Japanese Americans live even today. “Who are we as Japanese Americans?” and “What is this culture that we should be preserving?” are questions that we hope will be answered. Through this trip, everyone will have an opportunity to join with your peers; discuss your thoughts; and hear what others felt, appreciated, and realized.

Please contact Team Mirai at info@teammirai.com for further questions and on how you can join Team Mirai for this sure to be memorable day.

Since winning the SFVJACC Scholarship in May, I have been enjoying my independence while attending the University of San Francisco. Besides my classes, which included Japanese Language, I have been exploring the city with my roommates and new friends.

In September I had the opportunity to apply for the Terasaki Winter 2013 tour of Japan. To my surprise and delight, I was accepted. This educational tour is subsidized by Dr. Paul Terasaki and his foundation in West LA. This was my very first trip to Japan, and it was unforgettable. On my two week tour, I explored a wide spectrum of the country from the rural peaceful countryside of Minami Sanriku, to the hustle and bustle of the Shibuya Crossing in Tokyo. In all, we visited four cities; Sendai, Tokyo, Kyoto, and Hiroshima. During the tour I also had the opportunity to visit several universities, attend lectures, and interact with university students which is one way this opportunity is so unique.

Some highlights of my trip by city include:

Sendai - We had the opportunity to visit the Nozomi Project; a social enterprise providing women affected by the earthquake and tsunami with a source of income, a circle of friends, and hope. The women make jewelry from shards of pottery found post-tsunami. For me this visit was fun and inspiring. It was fun to see these unique products and such a creative use of shattered remains. It was also encouraging as the women of the Nozomi Project are so grateful for all the organization has done not only for them, but for this once devastated community as a whole. Listening to the women’s stories of how they became involved in the company from the day of the tsunami to the present day was both heartbreaking and amazing to see the resilience of these women.

Tokyo - Visiting Tokyo University, also known as Todai, was another great experience. Todai has an extremely good reputation in Japan, and it was cool to be an honorary Todai student for the day. At the university we listened to three lectures all relating to Japanese and Japanese American cultures. In addition to these lectures we also got a tour of the school and a chance to interact with students. Some of the students were even able to meet us and show us around Tokyo, which was great to get a more local perspective of a city with such a tourist-y reputation.

Kyoto - The Center for PS Cell Research of Kyoto University was another destination of our tour. This is the lab of Dr. Shinya Yamanaka, a Nobel Prize winning doctor, so it was a real privilege to get a tour of the facility. While at the lab we listened to lectures from Drs. Saji and Kimura about the research done at the facility as well as a recap of some Japanese culture.

Hiroshima - Our last destination of the tour was Hiroshima. Here, we were given a tour of the Peace Memorial Park and the Peace Memorial Museum by Mr. Isao Aratani; a survivor of the bombing in Hiroshima. Walking through the museum was a rush of conflicting feelings being Japanese American. With that said it was an enlightening experience to hear the Japanese perspective of the bombing.

Although I did not know anyone at the beginning of the tour, by the end of the trip every one of us had bonded with one another. We really became a family. I know after these two weeks I have made friends for life, and experienced the trip of a lifetime.

I would highly encourage anyone who is interested in the program to apply for either the winter or summer program. You can find more details about the program at: http://terasaki.org/nibei/educationaltours

Mom’s Rules  By Bud Sagara

Mothers are notorious for laying down hundreds of rules that have been drilled into us since before we could remember anything else. Many of the rules were not rules at all, but simple “don’t do that” or “do this” commands for the moment like “Don’t you dare bring that lizard inside the house,” or “Clean up that mess you made.” Other general rules regarding brushing your teeth, washing your hands or “don’t jump off the garage” were given to ensure good health. Taken all together, they form the boundaries that you probably used to set rules for your kids. As a grandparent, it is kind of amusing to observe our daughters use the same phrases when giving directions to their children that we used on them. Kids may not appear to be attentive when their parents speak to them, but they are listening and watching what you do, so try to set good examples.

It was difficult for me to comply with the “sit up straight” rule because of my natural tendency towards slouching. My poor posture today may be a result of my slumping defiance of Mom’s rules, or because of a bad back suffered at the San Fernando Valley Judo dojo, or when the rest of me fell apart after years of playing baseball for the San Fernando Aces. Anytime one of us would get a sore back or shoulder, we had to use a Salonpas patch and then beat the sore area with that Japanese flexy-thingy that has a rubber ball on the end. Does that thing really do any good? Another rule was that we had to take a jacket with us anytime we left the house. This rule was supposed to help us avoid catching colds or worse. I remember having to take a jacket to the Obon carnival at the CC even when it was 98 degrees outside. My Mom said that anytime a kid runs around outside and gets all sweaty, that’s when he’ll catch a chill and die. I still put a jacket or sweatshirt in the car anytime I leave the house, just in case. Another rule that Mom had was to make us change clothes whenever we got home. There were two categories of clothes, “good clothes” and “play clothes”, and the two categories could never be intermingled. Good clothes were for going to church, school, or to events at the CC. They were not to get dirty. Play clothes were for helping Dad at work, doing chores around the house, or for actual playing.

Another rule that was puzzling is the “don’t eat that because it will spoil your dinner” rule. I learned later that this rule was in direct conflict with the internationally accepted concept of hors d’oeuvres. How could I possibly comply with this rule when every time I visited my Japanese American friends in the neighborhood, snacks would be offered and a bag of fruit or vegetables was given to me to take home? There are many endearing traits about Japanese American families that involve food and what to do and what not to do. For example, you can’t start eating until you have a bowl of rice, you know countless ways Spam is served, or food always tastes better when you use chopsticks. When vegetables are prepared, they are invariably cut on an angle and only Best Foods brand mayonnaise is used to mix with shoyu to make a dipping sauce. A small bottle of shoyu is the only thing that is used from the condiment tray on the dining table. You’ve been eating Chinese chicken salad long before it was popular and there will probably be ambrosia, macaroni salad, or multi-layered finger Jell-o served at any family potluck. Hot water for tea is dispensed from an air pot thermos and cold drinks are served from an ice chest. When the meal is finished, there will be a stack of washed Styrofoam containers available so that each guest can take home leftovers.

There are even more rules if you go out to dinner. It doesn’t matter if you are celebrating an event or with whom you are dining, you must vigorously fight to pay the bill. If you lose that fight, you must try to stuff money in the pocket of the person who paid the bill. After attending a funeral, you must go out to eat Chinese food. You must never take the last piece of anything served, no matter how much you want it. Enryo!

If you visit someone’s home, you always take off your shoes and bring a bag of fruit or vegetables for the hosts. If one receives visitors, a cup of hot tea or cold drink must be offered accompanied by senbei. Each Japanese American home is required to have at least one bag of senbei on hand at all times. If one is going to an event at the CC you must, of course, take a bag of fruit or vegetables to give to a friend or relative who is also attending. We share these odd quirks of Japanese American society, so isn’t it nice we have a place like the CC where everyone is alike. We know the same people or at least one of their relatives, and we even know someone who ran for Nisei Week Queen. We try to attend the Obon carnival even if we live outside of the Valley, and if we went to Japanese School, we must admit that our best subject was probably recess.

Chocolates for East Japan

Note: Chocolate for East Japan (C4EJ) is a small group of CC members that raise money doing the year to buy chocolate candy at Christmas time for the children in the devastated areas of Japan. The project is in it’s second year.

In 2013 winter, C4EJ was able to deliver the 800 chocolate bars to Miyagi and Fukushima Prefectures. Without your support we could not have done it.

It was very heartwarming when a chocolate bar was given to Ojizo-sama, the guardian deities of children. The three deities represent the three children who lived there and were tragically lost in the tsunami. You are welcome to see other photos reflecting the magic touch a chocolate bar can have in uniting supporters in the USA with the people of Japan.

Thank you very much for your warm support.

Discovering History in Your Own Backyard: Tuna Canyon Detention Station

On March 30, the SFV JACC and SFV JACL will be host to members, JA community, and CSUN students interested in the Tuna Canyon Detention Station story. It was designated as a Historical Cultural Monument #1039 last June 2013 by the City of Los Angeles. The event will take place in Dr. Sakaguchi Hall from 1:00-3:00 in the afternoon. John Paul DeGuzman will moderate the panel that includes Grace Shimizu, an expert from the Japanese Peruvian community, who will extend our knowledge about the immediate arrests and interrogations. Dr. Jessica Kim and Dr. Tomo Hattori's CSUN students will be attending en mass.

Dialogue between generations will take place during the open mic segment. The newly formed Tuna Canyon Detention Station Coalition consists of residents of the Sunland-Tujunga residents, Little Lander's Historical Society and leaders of the Japanese American community. Since the site is so close to the Center, it is a likely place to educate our youth about its history as the first place where Japanese, Italians, Germans, Japanese Peruvians and others were held.

The Coalition’s contributing scholars will present the vetted text that will be submitted to the Cultural Affairs Department of the City of Los Angeles for approval. Please come and support our effort to preserve Japanese American history. Admission is free. Light refreshments will be served. Photos are from its recent Shinto Purification Ceremony held on December 16.
